JOHN H. STARIN'S ANNUAL EXCURSION. BIS GENEROSITY TO OLD SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

A TRIP UP THE HUDSON.

A TRIP UP THE HUDSON.

It was a brilliant flotilla which sailed out into the harbor and headed up the Hudson River yesterday morning, with flags and streamers flying from every craft and music floating out over the water. Six roomy barges, drawn by saucy little tug boats, and five handsome steamers composed the fleet, which moved in two divisions, and carried 8,000 veteran soldiers and sailors of the Union. There was no booming of canaon as the vessels moved away, but hearty Saxon cheers rang out over the bay. Despite its warlike appearance, the expedition was a peaceful one. It was the sixth annual complimentary excursion given by John H. Starin to veterans of the Army and Navy. Representatives from seventy-five posts of the Grand Army of the Republic, in this city, Brookiyn, and Jersey City, besides many veterans who are not members of the order were present. Most of them were accompanied by their wives and children. With his usual generosity, Mr. Starin furnished everything free of cost for the excursion. The barges John Neilson, Stephen Warren, W. A. Sumner, General C. A. Arthur, W. H. Vanderbilt, and Curry, towed by the tugs S. J. Lenox and Titan, and the steamers John Lenox, Cayuga, and Blackbird took up the veterans at various stations. The Glen Island steamer Myndert Starin was the headquarters boat. Colonel George F. Hopper, Past Assistant Adjutant-General of the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of New-York, was the Commodore of the day and performed his arduous duries with grace and efficiency. Each barge was commanded by an officer of the Grand Army. Mr. St. Leonard represented Mr. Starin on board the headquarters boat. While the harges proceeded directly up the river the flag ship rounded Governor's Island and was tied at the ordnance pier, General Hancock came down in citizen's dress accompanied by a portion of his staff in fatigue uniform, and exchanged greetings with the veterans, who cheered him heatfully. The Myndert Starin then greetings with the veterans, who cheered him heartily. The Myndert Starin then proceeded up the river to Excelsior Grove, opposite him heartily. The Myndert Starin then proceeded up the river to Excelsior Grove, opposite Yonkers.

On board the Starin five long tables were spread with a bountiful luncheon, and champagne flowed freely. Toasts were drank, and appropriate recitations were given. General Martin T. McMahon spoke briefly, alluding to Mr. Starin's generosity year after year to the veterans of the Union, to whom he had proved himself a true friend. He had nothing to gain by it, and he showed his kindly feeling for those who had suffered hardships for the good of the country. Although General McMahon did not agree with Mr. Starin politically, he could approve him in this particular. Past Commander Carlisle, who is totally blind, also spoke of Mr. Starin in terms of strong praise, while responding to the toast. "The Grand Army of the Republic." He said that the men of the order would always be grateful to Mr. Starin for his unselfish friendship for them. Mr. St. Leonard, in behalf of Mr. Starin, responded happily to the sentiments expressed for his generous chief. W, H. Stiner responded to the toast "The Lades," alluding to the encouragement given by the mothers, wives and sweethearts of the North to the men who shouldered arms for the Union.

Union.

While no political discussions are permitted in the Posts of the order, there was a strong Blaine and Logan sentiment manifested among the veterans. W. F. Chapin, of the Union Square Company, recited a war poem, "Bay Billy," the hero being the horse of a white-haired Coionel; W. H. Harrison, of this city recited "The Clown's Baby," a mining camp episode, and Little Marguerite Nichols, who sang at the Academy of Music on Decoration Day evening, sang patriotic songs in English and French, Captain D. L. Braine spoke in response to the toast "The Navy," Among the guests were Rear-Admiral Walker, of the Navy; General Thomas W. Sweeny, of the Arnay; General Van Schaick, General Manning, General E. W. Van Wyck, General Manning, General E. W. Van Wyck, General E. M. Lee, late of the Cavalry Corps; General Kilburn Knox, Colonel Coonan, of the 69th Regiment, Colonel and Brevet Brigadier-General N. W. Day, Major J. H. Stiner, Major George F. Talt, Commander of Post 327; Colonel "Sam," Minness and Commander Kryzanowski, of Steinwehr Post, A band played popular and martial airs during the trip. On the barges there was music by brass bands and dancing. After a short stop at the grove the excursion returned to the city early in the evening full of enthusiasm for Mr. Starm.

A pleasing incident was the collection made on board the headquarters boat for Mrs. Alice Mack, the Union nurse, who is now destiute. Several city posts will take action in her case this week. Union.

THE NEW-YORK BANK'S CENTENNIAL.

THE NEW-YORK BANK'S CENTENNIAL.

The directors of the National Bank of Newfork held a meeting yesterday to commemorate the one-hundredth anniversary of the beginning of business by the institution. The building at No. 48 Wall-st., was decorated elaborately with bunting, the figures of 1784-1884 and a bee-hive surmounting the display, being striking features. The bank was organized on March 15, 1784, the movement being stimulated by the success of the Philadelphia Bank of North America, which began business in December, 1781. Alexander Hamilton wrote the constitution of the new bank. The bank began business at No. 67 St. George's square, now known as Franklin Square, In 1787 it moved to No. 11 Hanover Square, the site of the Cotton Exchange, and in 1797 the present corner at Wall and William sts. was occupied. A SALE OF ANCIENT COINS.

A SALE OF ANCIENT COINS.

Bangs & Co., at No. 739 Broadway, began a six days' sale yesterday of the large and well-known collection of ancient Greek and Roman, Euglish, foreign and American coins and meals of Thomas Warner, of Cobocton, N. Y. The sale was arranged chronologically, giving the dates of the coins, so as to make a continuous history of the art of coinage from the earliest period. The first date was 800 B. C., and was a coin of Ægina of the earliest period, bearing the impress of a tortoise on one side and on the other a square punch mark. It brought $2 80. A coin of Persia, of the time of Darias I. 521 to 485 B. C., brought $25. A beautiful coin of Thurium, of the finest period of art, 420 to 345 B. C., brought $100. It bore the head of Pallas wearing the Athenian helmet, on one side of which is the Gorgon, Scylla; on the reverse side was a butl. This coin is considered one of the masterpieces of ancient art. One coin of Alexander the Great brought $13 50. Thomas Nast bought three coins for $18. They were siege coins of Bavaria in the time of Charles Albert, 1713. A coin of the Triumvirs, of Mark Antony and Cleopatra, $5 B.C., bearing the head of Antony and the bust of Cleopatra, sold for $11 50.

CHINESE EXCURSION UP THE HUDSON. The steamboat Grand Republic yesterday carried 600 Chinamen and three times as many white people up the Hudson River to Oscawana Island. It was the second annual "Otiental excursion" of the Chinese Sanday-schools of New-York and Brooklyn. The Chinese scholars chartered the boat and paid the expenses of the trip, and their guests were mostly teachers and other persons interested in the paid the expenses of the trip, and their guests were mostly teachers and other persons interested in the schools. On the way up and down the river about 200 of the pleasure-seekers kept up a constant singing of hymns, while on the upper deck a Chinese band produced the most hideous apologies for music from edd-looking implements. At the island monster kites were kept flying in the air for hours and there was a continual fusilade of fire-crackers and bombs, except during a half hour devoted to religious exercises. The small hotel on the island was overrun with hungry Christians and heathen until all the provender in the place gave out. Many persons who had not taken along luncheon baskets returned to the city in a half-famished state.

PRESIDENCY OF THE SECOND NATIONAL. It is probable that James A Trowbridge will re-tire from the presidency of the Second National Bank as soon as a successor can be chosen. The person now most prominently being considered by the directors of the bank is George Montague, presi-dent of the Seventh Ward National Bank. An intimate friend of Mr. Trowbridge said yesterday.

intimate friend of Mr. Trowbridge said yesterday:
Mr. Trowbridge does not want to hold the presidency of the bank on account of his business interests down town. He is a member of the banking firm of Vermilye & Co., and his time is fully occupied there. Mr. Trowbridge can keep the presidency of the bank if he wishes to keep it; he could have secured it upon the death of his father some years ago. But he has enough to do to attend to his own banking affairs, and he will resign just as soon as his receiver is chosen. Nothing has yet been done about the matter, but the only name the directors have discussed as his successor is that of Mr. Montague. FAILURE OF FRUIT IMPORTERS.

FAILURE OF FRUIT IMPORTERS.

Herron & Spencer, importers of fruits at Nos. 83 and 85 Park Place, made an assignment yesterday to their former partner William Anderson and A. M. Slawson. The firm was composed of James M. Herron and James H. Spencer, and was formed in January, 1881. They were the largest dealers in ceocanuts in this city, and owned two schooners, which were constantly plying between here and various ports in Central America. Last year they did a business of $700,000, and they claimed recently to have a capital of over $70,000. Their indebtedness is said to be fully $300,000, of which $168,316 56 is preferred. The nominal value of the assets is about the same as the habilities.

SELLING STEEL WARE FOR SILVER. The manager of the Meriden Britannia Company, in Umon Square, said to a TRIBUNE reporter, yesterday, that a man giving his name as Little had been soliciting orders throughout the city under the pretence of being connected with that house. After learning the names and addresses of the customers of the house, presumably through some friendly employe, Little would call with steel-plated ware, stating that he was selling for the house on commission. In several instances he sold spoons of this description to bearding-house keepers at $5 and $6 a dozen, when they are worth only about 50 cents a dozen. Little was formerly employed in East Fifty-eighth-st., near Broadway, where it is said, he forged his employer's name to an order. He is described as a short, thick-set young man, rather poorly dressed, but a smooth talker.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE ALDERMEN.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE ALDERMEN.

Alderman Shiels yesterday offered a resolution which was adopted designating Gonveneur Slip as a public marketplace for farmers' wagons, where they may dispose of their produce. The Fire Commissioners were authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $300 for a band at the annual parade of the Department, and the presentation of the Bennett and Stephenson medals on Thursday. The rooms occupied by the Finance Department were given to the new Supreme Court Judges, and the Commissioner of Public Works was directed to fit them up. A resolution was passed some time ago, requiring all persons holding office under the city government to live in the city, and prohibiting the Controller from paying non-resident office-holders. The Mayor declined to sign the resolution, and it was passed over his veto. John D. Townsend was employed as counsel to test the matter. President Kirk vesterday offered a resolution directing the Controller to pay $715 to Mr. Townsend.

HOT WORDS IN THE CUSTOM HOUSE. There was considerable excitement in the rotunda of the Custom House for a few moments yesterday. William Gascoign, a clerk in the office of a firm of Custom House brokers, was standing outside the railing talking to David Naugle, one of the clerks. Something was said about Blaine, whereupon "Blaine is a thief," said Gascoign.

"So are you a thief," replied Naugle,
"How do you know I am a thief?" yelled Gascoign in a rage.

CROWDS ADMIRING THE AMERICA.

A line of flags of all nations was stretched from stem to stem over the National Line steamship America and fluttered in the wind vesterday. Passenger Agent McLean's countenance beamed as he boasted of having received 16,000 gnests. Doubtless several thousand people inspected the ship. The women were especially of an exploring turn of mind and inspected every part of the vessel from the engine-room to the officers' deck and appeared disappointed that they could not climb up into the rigging. Admiration for the pretty saloon, comfortable staterooms and the general arrangement, was expressed by all. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Francklyn, General Abram Duryee, Major George W. McLean, Dr. Woolsey Johnson, Alderman Kirk, ex-Commissioner Lane, Charles Leary, Judge John Fitch, Loms Buckley, the Rev. Dr. Van Nest, George Pell, Mrs. Perry, Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Colgate and Miss Ashmore. CROWDS ADMIRING THE AMERICA.

BUSINESS OF THE BRIDGE FOR A YEAR.

The lack of a quorum prevented the annual meeting of the Bridge Trustees in Brooklyn yesterday for the election of officera. Treasurer Witte had prepared an elaborate financial report, from which the following figures are taken: In the year and one week from the time the Bridge was opened. May 24, 1883, to May 31, 1884, the total number of foot passengers was 6,179,300. The cars carried from the time they began running 5,322,140 persons, and in the year and one week 599,504 vehicles crossed the structure, which were estimated to carry 1,199,008 persons. The total receipts were $402,937 from toll charges and the disbursements $308,358 ss. The number of persons crossing to Brooklyn in excess of those to this city on the promenade was 570,000 and in the cars there was an excess of 711,100 the other way. THE PEOPLE WITH HIM. THE PEOPLE WITH HIM.

From The Bubuque Times.

The outcome of the Republican Convention came like a sunburst on the people of this country yesterday. It was ardently hoped that James G. Blaine would be nominated, but so bitter was the opposition and so relentiess the animosity displayed by a certain class of politicians against him that up to last night the issue was involved in much doubt. The people, however, have been with him from the first, and that reaches back at least eight years, since Colonel Ingersoil introduced him in the convention of 1876, and even before that. He is recognized the country over as one of the really great men of the Nation. He is a man of the people, independent of party. In both foreign and domestic relations he is everywhere recognized as a representative American, devoid alike of narrow prejudices or of braggart spread-eagleism.

A SOUTHERN OPINION.

From The Macon Telegraph.

Mr. Blaine is a dusting leafer, and possesses many striking and attractive personal qualities. Such is the testimony of friends and toes alike.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC CANVASS. AN ENTHUSIASTIC CANVASS.

From The Orwego Times and Express.

We would not have believed, until the fact has been actually demonstrated, that the success of any one of the several candidates whose names have been more or less prominently before the people would have been universally well received as is hit. Hundreds of Republicans, who only a few weeks ago were declaring they preferred another nomination, are among the most cordial of his supporters. Blaine entinustant seems to be contaglent and universal. With such a leader it is safe to predict the liveliest and most outbaslastic Presidential canvass tals country has seen for years. To doubt his triumphant election would be to doubt the patriotism and good sense of the country.

AN INSPIRATION IN HIS NAME.

AN INSPIRATION IN HIS NAME.

From The Introl! Evening Journal,

His political opinions are history and law; the magnetism of his presence is felt in every community which he has at any time stirred with his splendful oratory, his brilliant services to his party and his fidelity to its best principles are household knowledge with Republicans; and though James G. Hlaine is not greatest among Americans, or even greatest among Republicans, there is, to men of his way of political thinking, an anaptration in his name to be found in none other. Arthur would be stronger with the influences that centre about Wall Street. Sherman might be an assurance of more conservative administration. Against Edmunds there would be less inclination to revoit. But, though Blaine's nomination will be received coldly in some quarters, land will grievously disappoint political purists, it is certain that no other nomination would be so gratifying to active, non-office-holding Republicans throughout the country. And certainly the candidacy of James G. Blaine, with his brilliant Congressional career, his antacity, his dash, his extensive negandatance, and with the pathos of Garffield's death yet elinging to him, will excite an enthusiasm among Republicans which no other candidacy could.

A FIT NOMINATION.

HE STANDS FOR THE PARTY. From The St. Louis Globe Democrat. so made c2ds the controversy about HE STANDS FOR THE PARTY.

From The St. Louis Globe Democrat.

A choice so made casts the controversy about the man, and fairly inangurates the contest for the principles and the supremacy of the party. Yesterday Mr. Blaine was simply an undyl dual, to be passed upon for a certain use and object; to day, he stands not for himself any longer, but for the heroic and potent organization that has declared him to be its "leader of leaders" and its bright particular champton. His personality has censed to be a question for Republicans to dispute about, orto deal with otherwise than us the verifici in his favor requires. He passed the sort of scrutiny that is decisive and complete, and he is the embodiment now of those beliefs and hopes, those doctrines and purposes, by virtue of which the party has achieved all its glories in the past and upon which depend all its chances of prolonged existence and usefulness. There can be no difference and organized for controversy about Republican principles, nor about the desirability of vindicating and maintaining them.

THE ABLEST REPUBLICAN LEADER.

THE ABLEST REPUBLICAN LEADER.

James G. Blaine, the Republican candidate for the Presidency, is the best known, the most popular and brilliant, and, in some respects, the ablest, leader of the Republican party. The constry knows the man and his public record. There is hardly an incident of importance in his career that has not been published over and over again in at least two-thirds of the newspapers of the country.

A STRONG TICKET.

From The Cotumbus (a), Dispatch.

The Presidential ticket nominated at Chicago yesterday, by the Republican National Convention, is a strong one, and will, it is believed, be successful against any delast that the Democrats can put up. In the nomination of Baine for the Presidency the Convention ratified, the wish of the great mass of the Republican party. He is a brilliant, desting leader, who has won very general admiration during his long public career. AN AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVE MAN.

AN AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVE MAN.
From The Cincionati Commercial Guzette.

James G. Blahm is now afficially, as he has long been actually, the leader of the National Republican party. It is vain to say that he is not as good as the party at its best. The ideologists who disparage him while they exhaust the force of language in culogisms of the party and the glorification of the country are guilty of an inconsistency. There is no more striking American representative man than the Republican candidate.

A STATESMAN AND A SOLDIER.
From the Cedar Republican.

James G. Blaine and John A. Logan, the statesman and the soldier, unting in their persons the ideals of the people the man who in the fine of trial guided the affairs of the Nation, and he who in the field and with his sword fought its battles—with this ticket, and with an enthusiasm and a steadfast purpose never known in a National election, the Republican party—the perty of ideas and progress—will roll uo such a victory as will stand forever on the seroil of recorded time as an indication of the popular appreciation of reform and promises faithled.

THE VOICE OF THE TENNESSEE REPUBLICANS. THE VOICE OF THE TENNESSEE REPUBLICANS.

THE VOICE OF THE TENNESSEE REPUBLICANS.

From the Knarring Chronicle.

Here and now we piedee to the nomines of the party the hearty and unfaltering support of The Chronicle, and builter that we may not immodestly claim that in this matter it speaks the semiment of Tennessee Republi-"IN THIS SIGN WE CONQUER."

From The Indicatories Journal.

Blaine and Loran! In this sign we conquer. With the greatest pleasure and carnestness The Journal enters into the carwass about to open, and which will prove to be one of the hottest the country has ever known, under the leadership of the able and brilliant men whom the voice of the party has called to the command of our vic-TICKET AND PLATFORM INVINCIBLE.

TREATH AND PLATFORM INVINCIBLE.

From The Ohio State Journal.

Possibly no two men could have been associated together who combine, in themselves, such varied and powerful elements of personal popularity as James G.
Bathe and John A. Logan. But they are not only popufar men; they are men of brains, men of public experience, men whom the Democratic party may be challenged to match.

The ticket and the platform are invincible.

The ticket and the platform are invincible.

THE FANK AND FILE FOR HIM.

From the Chicago Tribune.

If a pichicite of the Republican party could have been ordered on the nomination, flame would have received 4,000,000 out of the 5,000,000 Republican votes against all other cambidates. The opposition to him came from the shouldars-straps; the rank and file which furnish votes on election day. The same popular sentiment which has nominated bin will elect him. Any resembnent among the positicians been of clearing just at this moment will vanish into this air before the steady march of popular feeling. No man while at heart with the Republican party can hold out against the masses of the party. These who have worked against finding will be influenced by the prompt and cordial lender of hearty support. by the prompt and cordial tender of hearty support made by "resident Arthur the very moment it became evident that Baine would be nominated. This example will be unitated with a configuous blea will sweep through all faction and extend from Maine to California.

he premonitory and gleeful shouts of assured victory. With that uame upon the Republican banners, a Republican triumph, as wplendid as any that has been achieved in the past, is a foregone conclusion.

in the past, is a foregone conclusion.

REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES SAFE.

From The Milauke Sentinel.

With Mr. Blaine in the White House, Republican principles and policy will be maintained in the administration of the Government; with his defeat will come the rule of the Democratic party, with no settled principles or polloy, but disturbing all the financial and business interests of the country by its subserviency to the schemes of reckless cranks and demagogues, who wish to gain favor with the worst elements of the population by pandering to their passions and prejudices. President Arthur has set a good example to other Republicans by promptly sending his congratulations to Mr. Blaine and pledging him his cordial support.

THE PEOPLE TRUST THEM. From The Lockport (N. F.) Journal.

So stands the ticket. It baselements of strength which sould and will insure success. Both the candidates are men who have been long in prominent pathle life. They are no dark korses. They have a record. It would be stranger if in their long service both had not made mistakes. If so they will naturally be made the most of by the Democracy. That is all right. But the people after all trust both Biaine and Logan. If they have at any time erred it has been of the head and not of the heart.

A MODERN "HARRY OF THE WEST."

From The Chicago Inter-Grean.

No man in the Republican party stands so near the hearts of a large majority of its members as James O. Hame. He is in reality their "Plained Knight." Slander and vituperation seem only to attach them more closely and give their greater eagerness to demonstrate their loyalty and devotion. These men are of the rank and file of the party, and perhaps it was well to gratify them by the nomination of this modern Harry of the West.

WEST VIRGINIA GETS HER CHOICE.

From the Wheeling Intelligencer.

At last! After many years of patient waiting and unswerving fidelity to her favorite, James G. Biaine, West Virginia Republicans get the candidate of their choice.
What a campaign it will be! What terror the wave of enthusiasm that will aweep over this State, from the busy mills of the Western Paniandle to the mines of the Kanawhn Valley, will strike into the hearts of the Bourbons of this State.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE.

From the springfield (Ohto) Globe.

The people's choice has at last been approved by the politicians. The Henry Clay of latter-day Republicanism has been nominated by a great party for the highest office in the gift of the people. The hold that James G. Bilaine has upon the masses of the Republican party is wonderful. He is hated by the sham reformers because he will not lead himself to the attempted accomplishment of an impossibility. of an impossibility. THE FLAG WILL BE RESPECTED.

While he is Commander-in-Chief of the military and naval forces of the Republic, the American flag will be respected wherever it floats. The British Lion will no more dare tamper with the rights of native or naturalized American childrens, than the meanest national insect of the obscurest country of South America. THE RIGHT WAY TO LOOK AT IT.

From The Fall River News,

The nominations having been duly, fairly and honorably made, terre is nothing left for Republicans everywhere to do but to unite in solid phalanx in their support. The party must not be sacrificed because of individual disappointments.

SEAL SKINS.

During the past month some of the heaviest importers of Seal Skins were unable to borrow money from their regular bankers on Wall-st., and were therefore forced to sell. I had the ready cash and took advantage of the situation, purchasing largely the choicest Alaska Seal Skins for spot cash, and manufacturing them into garments of the newest shapes and styles. My own regular mportation orders have been filled, and the goods are now daily arriving, consequently, having paid of a large amount of money recently, I am a little short. In order to raise money to meet obligations I have decided (instead of borrowing) to sell Seal Skin sacques and other fashion-able furs at prices that will pay parties intending to purchase to buy now instead of waiting until fall. Garments purchased now will be kept on storage free, if desired.
